

New Faces

The absence of Basset Bodies at this year's tournament at Glenvista Country Club meant the battle for honours was a heated affair.

A request made from last year was that the event be moved to October as opposed to the usual August when the Johannesburg winds and winter contribute to some miserable playing conditions. Despite the late rains this year, the course was still in excellent condition and the day provided some outstanding golf especially on the Power Play holes in breezy conditions.

Adding pressure

The personnel from Golf Guys were once again on the first tee adding pressure with their cameras for the Swing Analysis CD which is given to all competitors analysing their individual swing. Of course this is the nine holes where the Power Play begins with players nominating at least three holes as Power Play holes where double points can be made by going for the Power Play Jolly Roger Flags on the greens.

A tough day

The team from Chemimpo were having a tough day which was going from bad to worse as they brought up the rear and then lost their score card which was probably fortunate for them. Their consolation prize for the longest day out in the sun was an umbrella each donated by the Rose Foundation. Furthermore, Basil Collins received a prize for getting his ball closest to the pin and Richard Rice was rewarded for delivering the longest drive.

The prize-giving dinner was once again held in the Glenvista Club House and it was S. Mahoa, I. Merafe, Zeyd Timol and Bev Heuvel team from Engen who took top honours. A close second place was the Clive Rice fourball with C. Rice, R. Rice, K. Lubesi and G. Curry. This team was affectionately known as the Curry and Rice team.
